

What is a mirror adjustment site?

The blind spot mirror has been mandatory for several years now, but just as important as the presence of the mirrors is their correct use. Firstly by adjusting them properly and secondly by looking in them regularly. Looking in them remains the driver's responsibility, but the Government of Flanders is helping with the proper adjustment of the mirrors by constructing mirror adjustment sites all over Flanders. A mirror adjustment site is an area with marked-out sections which allow you to see the mirrors' fields of vision. It is quite easy to use.

You drive your truck between the yellow lines and stop when you line up with the sign depicting an eye.

The translation of the instruction board below will inform you which marked-out section must be visible in which mirror. When you are adjusting your mirrors, it is important that you are sitting in the right position, with your seat at the right height and distance. Safe journey!

Mirror adjustment site

Line up your vehicle correctly:

- drive centrally between the yellow lines
- stop when your shoulder lines up with this sign
- adjust your seat as usual, sit up straight and look in your mirrors

Can you see the numbered areas?

- Area 1 in your right-hand main mirror and in your right-hand wide-angle mirror
- Area 2 in your right-hand wide-angle mirror and/or blind spot mirror and/or camera
- Area 3 in your close-proximity mirror
- Area 4 in your frontal mirror

If so, your mirrors are adjusted properly. Safe journey!

The Government of Flanders is not liable for the construction or use of the mirror adjustment site.
